Agents Do Charity – and it's getting cold out there...

By Graham Norwood

It's perhaps appropriate that we kick off this week's Agents Do Charity with an appeal for winter clothing for the homeless and others in need: the weather's deteriorating and we are approaching the season of goodwill, so we hope you can make a donation.

This epitomises how good the estate agency industry is at charitable work, and how it often receives little credit for such good deeds. We hope to redress that injustice by publicising agents' efforts. Do please email us at press@estateagenttoday.co.uk and we will do the rest.

Winter Coats Collection: Agents Giving is calling all agents and suppliers to get involved with the Winter Coat Drive, which Agents Giving is supporting through its Rightmove grant.

Companies, including Chestertons and Embrace Mortgage Services, are already taking part by collecting coats for their local shelters, homeless charities, YMCA, food banks, and other organisations.

A further festive initiative is being carried out by Ravensworth, who is donating 10 per cent of all its Christmas card sales to Agents Giving; a generous contribution which will help Agents Giving with its charitable activities in the New Year.
